It's great we are finally able to publish another newsletter for CCSA. Thanks you to all those who took the time to submit material for this edition and also to our new Editor and Publisher Fred Hicks. This issue is packed with a lot of information, and I trust everyone will take the time to review it and get some ideas that can be used going forward.

Last month we gathered in Las Vegas for the 33rd CSI Training conference and as usual the conference was well organized and the content was relevant to those who attended. Congratulations to all the Canadian programs and individuals who won very well deserved awards and recognition.

One important message I believe, which resonated with me during my interactions at both meetings and networking in smaller groups, was the importance of communications.

We received some difficult questions at our Canadian meeting which on reflection points out we at the National level need to do a better job of communicating with the local programs across this country.
I am confident we can use this newsletter as one way to provide more timely and relevant information to our local programs.

It is important to remember everyone involved in CCSA is a volunteer not a paid employee. I sincerely believe we are all trying our hardest to respond to the needs of programs across the country and also to represent Canada at the International Board table.

Each Province and Territory elects a director to CCSA and each Director is a voting member of the board. One responsibility of the Directors is to establish and maintain effective communication links with the local programs within their Province or Territory on an ongoing basis. This communication also needs to be two way so the needs and questions of the local programs are brought to the National table if necessary. We have listed the various Directors as well as committee chairs and law enforcement advisors on page 15 in this edition. Please contact any of them if you need information or have any questions.

As most of you will be aware, there are some important changes happening at the International level which will no doubt have some impact on Crime Stoppers International, however, these events will not slow down the ongoing efforts and hard work of the six Regions still involved. We will be keeping the communication lines open from the International level more than ever before under the very capable leadership of our new CSI President Alex MacDonald. Global expansion is certainly a high priority and is moving forward.

In the Caribbean, for example, there will be two if not three new programs in existence before this year ends and several more planned for next year. Europe, South Africa and Australia are also working on expansion within their Regions as well. As programs are brought on we will be advising through our various communication tools so everyone is aware.

The Host committee in Barbados is working very hard to put together a first class training conference as we have come to expect from conferences in that part of the World. If plans come together there will be training around Human Trafficking which will provide some accreditation at the completion. This is something which has never happened before! Stay tuned for further developments in this regard. There is a flyer on page 16 in this issue from Barbados with further details available on the Barbados Crime Stoppers website or Facebook page.

I would also like to take the time to thank each one of you who are involved within Crime Stoppers either as a volunteer, employee or law enforcement, for your significant efforts in helping to make our Organization collectively one of the most effective crime fighting and crime solving organizations in the world. Thank you also to my fellow directors for your continued support.

Have a safe and Happy Holiday season and a Very Happy New Year!

Send in your articles, pictures and news of upcoming events or conferences so we can communicate your information to all the CCSA programs.
In 1996, Info-Crime Quebec was created by a group of dedicated professionals, with the intent of giving the population of Quebec, except for Montreal, a tool by which they could report crimes by a tip line, while assuring complete anonymity and the possibility of collecting a reward of up to $2,000.00.

Over the years, Info-Crime Quebec has continually improved the process, and has achieved outstanding results by awareness for the tip line as well as the online reporting system on the web. Partnerships with the public, law-enforcement agencies and the media, were instrumental in making it possible to solve crimes.

Surveys, meetings, and debates took place within our organization to decide on the feasibility to comply with the Canadian Crime Stoppers Association’s French version of Échec au crime.

It was agreed by all members that the terminology Échec au crime would have a positive impact on our organization and the public. In French, the word “Échec” sends out a strong message and emphasizes our mission of preventing and fighting crimes, with the end result being safer communities.

From a business perspective, a thorough analysis was made in order the carefully plan, prepare and execute a flawless implementation plan. A major component was the communication plan for all members, the media, law enforcement agencies and the public, with a time factor leading up to and beyond the press conference.

The press conference was a success; several media covered the event. Our president, Mr. Tom McConnell, made the presentation by which we officially became Échec au crime. Dedicated volunteers at all levels made a project become an outstanding reality.

Another important component is the 2012-2013 transition plan. This entails the implementation of a new website, echecaucrime.com, billboards for municipalities, literature and promotional items, presentation material, links on the Sûreté du Quebec and other partners’ intranet systems, as well as meetings with all regional police commanders and public safety committees.

Mr. Tom McConnell, Provincial president

Dedicated volunteers at all levels made a project become an outstanding reality.

Long live Échec au crime! Visit our website, echecaucrime.com. Please note that it is in French only at this point in time.

The Annual General Meeting of PEI Crime Stoppers was held on January 25th, 2012 at the Howard Johnson Dutch Inn in Cornwall, PEI. A broad mix of media, law enforcement, PEI Crime Stoppers Board members, government and non-government agencies were present to hear an overview of the year 2012 delivered by Board executive.

Posters from the Anti-Bullying contest were on display and judging took place to select the winners in various categories.

Guest speaker was Gordon Garrison, Policing Services Manager, Policy, Policing and Crime Prevention, Province of Prince Edward Island who spoke on current policing issues and the work of his department.

An award recognizing his service and dedication to PEI Crime Stoppers was presented to Sgt. Denis Morin, RCMP Policing advisor to the Board who recently transferred to Nova Scotia.

PEI Crime Stoppers President Gary Bowness, Guest Speaker Gordon Garrison and Coordinator Phil Pitts admire some of anti-bullying poster submissions.
Recognizing that Island schools are a major component of the Island community and that the role of PEI Crime Stoppers is to make PEI a better place to live and do business, PEI Crime Stoppers launched a poster contest aimed at raising awareness of the potential negative affects of bullying on lives of students. The contest was open to all secondary and high school students on PEI, in the Western, Eastern and French School Districts. Students were asked to produce an original poster depicting an anti-bullying message.

"The Eastern School District values the ongoing work of Crime Stoppers in our communities. Several intermediate and senior high schools are expected to participate in this year's anti-bullying initiatives which have strong ties to the curriculum and support our Caring Places to Learn policy," noted Ricky Hood, Superintendent. "The Western School Board is pleased to work with PEI Crime Stoppers on this anti-bullying initiative. This effort is very supportive to the anti-bullying work currently occurring across our schools," added Superintendent, Jane McMillan.

Crime Stoppers Coordinator Phil Pitts said "We hope by working with the students and schools we can raise awareness of bullying, what constitutes bullying and that this behaviour is not acceptable".

It is hoped that together we can create a safer and better learning environment for the students and at the same time prevent those doing the bullying from going on to engage in more destructive antisocial behaviours as they get older."
On Friday May 25, 2012 supporters of PEI Crime Stoppers gathered at the Top of the Park Dining Room in Charlottetown to raise funds and recognize the fine work done every day by our Island Police Service at a Black Tie Dinner.

Two officers were recognized for their work above and beyond the call of duty in their respective communities. RCMP Officer of the Year Cst. Dwayne Pardy of the West Prince Detachment was selected for his ongoing work in the community particularly in the area of highway safety. Recognized for his work in the community in particular for his work with young people was Municipal Police Officer of the Year Chief Lewie Sutherland of the Kensington Police Service.

Congratulations to both on their well-deserved awards. We would like to thank all the nominees, the selection committee, our many supporters and sponsors who helped make this event a success. Special thanks to our nominee table sponsors: David Corrigan – Caldwell Banker Parker Realty, Meridian Farms, Fair Isle Ford and the PEI Police Association.

2012 Police Officer of the Year Awards Presented:

Crime Stopper members and volunteers from the four Atlantic Provinces and Quebec gathered in Stanley Bridge for two days of training and networking on May 24th. and 25th. We would like to thank all our presenters who provided excellent presentations on cyber crime, Internet safety, marketing, organized crime and drugs, student crime stoppers, volunteers, human trafficking and contraband tobacco. The training finished with a very active global cafe facilitated by Jaime Bell where ideas were shared on marketing, attracting and maintaining volunteers and fundraising. Thanks to Conference sponsors Stanley Bridge Resort, Matheson Murray Law firm, E& J Gallo Wines, MRSB Accountants, Cox & Palmer Law firm, ABCE Accountants, Town of Summerside and Fenety Marketing. We truly enjoyed hosting this event and thanks to all the Crime Stopper Programs who attended and participated in the training. Looking forward to next year!

NEW BRUNSWICK REPORT 2012

The N.B. Crime Stoppers Inc. program is in its 27th year of fantastic and productive operation. The program has just over 300 enthusiastic and active volunteer members including approximately 70 coordinators serving in 20 chapters, which cover the entire New Brunswick province. Of interest is that there are still several founding members serving with chapters as well as the provincial board. N.B. Crime Stoppers Inc. statistics for those 27 years are something for which the members are very proud. For example since 1985 they have contributed to 8,452 arrests, 7,771 cases solved, $7,701,910 in property recovered, $16,305,161 in solved arsons, $3,079,587 in solved frauds, the capture of 284 fugitives, wholesale drug seizures worth an estimated $63,200,754 and $20,030,255 in customs seizures. It is important to note that all these successes were accomplished with only $775,380 of approved awards. All N.B. Crime Stoppers Inc. executive members, volunteers and law enforcement coordinators, partners and supporters are extremely proud of these accomplishments.

This year the 27th N.B. Crime Stoppers Annual Training Conference (ATC) was held in Sussex N.B. during October 12-14, hosted by the Sussex Crime Stoppers Chapter. The weekend started with registration and a meet and greet on Friday evening, which included a fundraiser auction and live entertainment by “The Sussex and You Know It” featuring Nathan Brown and Jed Webster. Their Youtube act includes a cow, which they did not bring to this venue but young Marcus Brown provided a likable facsimile. Saturday included the normal business meeting topics, including a very interesting presentation on identity theft given by RCMP S/Sgt Stephan Pouliot.

Following breakfast on Sunday morning the training for law enforcement coordinators, provided by RCMP Provincial Police Coordinator Sgt Noël Cyr and treasurers training provided by Accounts Manager Bennie Godin were conducted in separate areas while President Ron Godin chaired the remainder of the business meeting. In keeping with other years, the ATC attendance was very good with 89 delegates attending the Saturday and Sunday meetings, 25 law enforcement coordinators and tips line operators participated in the Coordinator Training and nine (9) in the Treasurer Training. There were 150 registered members, spouses and guests for the dinner and dance Saturday evening.

This year three members and one spouse from N.B. Crime Stoppers Inc. attended the CSI Training Conference in Las Vegas, they reported having a great time and found the meeting topics to be both interesting and informative. During the awards presentations N.B. Crime Stoppers Inc. received the “Productivity Award” for Communities 300,001 – one Million “Greatest increase in Arrests”. Because this newsletter has not been printed since the CSI conference in Montego Bay Jamaica in 2011, they wish to report that N.B. Crime Stoppers Inc. received the following two awards; the Productivity Award for Communities 750,000 -2 Million “Greatest Increase in Arrests” and the Media Award for Communities 750,000 – 2 Million “Best Print Public Service Announcement”. While at the CSI Training Conference this year, CCSA held three meetings to which the three New Brunswick delegates present attended.

Students of several New Brunswick school districts were very pleased to have Mitch Dorge visit a total of ten schools in central New Brunswick during the week of October 22 – 26, 2012. Mitch, a Juno award-winner, Grammy nominee and drummer with the Crash Test Dummies has travelled the world and is absolutely passionate about empowering today’s youth. Mitch, a Juno award-winner, Grammy nominee and drummer with the Crash Test Dummies has travelled the world and has absolutely developed a unique, thought-provoking presentation that takes an honest, intense look at responsible choices. His presentation encourages teens to follow their dreams, set goals for themselves and make choices that will help them to be successful in the future. For his two-hour “Dreams do come true … never stop the chase” presentation, he performs with his complete set of drums and other props for this very entertaining and important message. Several organizations helped Mitch with his ten school engagements during the week; they included RCMP District 2, N.B. Crime Stoppers Inc., Fredericton Police Force, Schools and Co-operators Insurance. It was N.B. Crime Stoppers Inc. privilege to transport Mitch and his equipment to his venues for the entire week. (See attached photos)

The members of N.B. Crime Stoppers Inc. are very proud of their coordinators and Oromocto/Gagetown Crime Stoppers are no exception. One of their coordinators is Const. Marc Trioreau who has been the chapter RCMP coordinator since January 2010. Marc is also the Crime Prevention /Victim’s Service – Community Policing Officer for the Town of Oromocto, NB.

Marc Trioreau joined the RCMP in Montreal in 1989. Before attending basic RCMP training in Regina Saskatchewan Marc attended English language training in Ottawa for six months. Following basic training Marc was posted to Port aux Basques Newfoundland for five years. Marc was then transferred to Harbour Grace NL in 1994 where he worked general duties until he took on the position of Community Policing Officer. Marc was also very involved with the Crime Stoppers program while in Newfoundland. He has been posted to RCMP District 2 Oromocto N.B. for the past three years.

Const. Trioreau is the type of law enforcement coordinator that every crime stopper wants in their organization. He is very proactive as a coordinator, ensuring that his duties and reports are completed effectively and in a timely manner. He rarely misses one of the chapter’s monthly meetings, where he participates to the fullest providing good insight and recommendations as a result of his 23 years on the Force and past Crime Stoppers experience in NL. Marc participates in all the chapter’s fundraising and volunteer activities, time and other duties permitting. Since arriving in Oromocto Const. Trioreau started a weekly column in the local newspaper titled “You and Your Police”. His column covers subjects that are of interest to all citizens of Oromocto and surrounding area and usually ends with a local Crime of The Week and a Tag for Crime Stoppers with the I-800-222-TIPS (8477) number.

Marc has since been promoted to Cpl. and posted to McAdam NB in July of 2012. Since leaving he has been replaced by RCMP Cpl. Paul Looker another excellent member and coordinator. Both Marc and his wife Lucie were active in all the chapter's social activities. Cpl. Marc Trioreau and Lucie have three children. We wish Marc and his family good luck in his new job. (See photo)

Do Not Forget
January 2013 is Crime Stoppers month
The Theme is:
“Building a Stronger Foundation”.
Planning should have started by now for any proposed projects.
Letters from the Prime Minister and the RCMP Commissioner will be circulated once received.
Again this year, Metro Vancouver Crime Stoppers and its Vancouver-based radio partners at CORUS Entertainment have been recognized for their prompt and effective actions … this time in the wake of the devastating riots that erupted moments after the Vancouver Canucks had lost the seventh and deciding game of the National Hockey League’s 2011 Stanley Cup Finals.

An estimated 100,000 people had crowded into the streets of downtown Vancouver on the night of June 15th, to watch that final game on large television screens, when what has been labelled as “a small group of troublemakers” began a disturbance, setting police and private vehicles on fire, smashing windows and looting stores.

At least 140 people were injured, among them at least nine police officers. Property damage directly attributable to the rioting has been estimated in excess of four-million dollars. More than 115 people were arrested at the time. But Metro Vancouver Crime Stoppers moved quickly to prepare, produce and schedule a set of hard-hitting, :60-second public service announcements that were on the air within hours on its radio broadcasting partner station, CKNW. These announcements have been credited with helping prompt the general public into taking action against the rioters, by providing valuable information that has since led to dozens of arrests and convictions.

In the first few days following the rioting, Metro Vancouver Crime Stoppers staff handled 240 anonymous tips concerning the riots, the largest number of tips ever recorded in a 24-hour period. Almost all of the tips were received via the Internet; web tips that require a prompt reply, encouraging the tipster to add more information or details. The first wave of charges was laid in December of 2011. The total number of charges recommended by police now stands at 872, sworn against 275 individuals. The Crown has so far approved charges against more than 140 people. Several dozen have pleaded guilty, but only a handful has been sentenced. Almost 18 months after the riot, the occasional tip is still showing up.

At the 2012 Crime Stoppers International convention in Las Vegas, MVCS and CKNW were recognized for their efforts, with the presentation of the award for Best Large-Market Public Service Broadcast (Radio). The judges took into account the key role played by MVCS and CKNW in giving the public and the authorities a means by which they could exact a measure of revenge, while working to re-build the city’s somewhat-tarnished reputation.

In reality, the post-rioting campaign differs little from what MVCS and CKNW do on a regular basis, week in and week out … broadcasting and displaying names and faces, asking the public to either help to identify the perpetrators or help to find those who have already been publicly named as having committed a crime.

The use of social media to help bring so many of the identified participants to justice was never more apparent in the aftermath of the riot. Not only were some of the worst offenders actually allowing their images to be posted on globally-accessible social network sites, they were encouraging their friends to do so on their behalf. I government or society in general might be accused … the one overwhelming reaction that seemed to touch a nerve in every sector was the damage done to Vancouver's supposedly "world-class" reputation by a small, non-hockey fan element and the fact the perpetrators were being identified on the world-wide web, for all to see.

Vancouver's police have been criticized for the length of time it has taken to lay charges but police Chief Jim Chu insists that a thorough investigation of the mountain of evidence is required to ensure the most severe penalties are sought. He promises no expense will be spared, top dollar will be paid, overtime costs and out-of-pocket expenses will be tallied up, while legal aid will be provided to some of the perpetrators ... despite fears that, in some cases, the guilty will be set free.

All of which leaves one to ponder what might happen if the National Hockey League settles its labour dispute in time to schedule a meaningful season of play in 2012-13 ... and this turns out to be the year the Vancouver Canucks make a return trip to the Stanley Cup. Will the 2011 lessons learned in hindsight be remembered in time to ensure they can be used to help protect Vancouver, or any other 'host' city, from the actions of would-be trouble-makers in the Spring of 2013?

And will that city's local Crime Stoppers organization be ready to act as swiftly, decisively and with the same impact if the rioters once again take to the streets?

Pat Gillie - Civilian of the Year Award

Like most Crime Stoppers volunteers, Pat Gillie is passionate about the program and spends many, many hours helping not only her local board but other boards around the province of Ontario.

She has been Chair of Hamilton Crime Stoppers for two years and served on the Executive Committee for ten years. For three strenuous years, she simultaneously held the office of President of Ontario Association of Crime Stoppers as well as volunteering with the local board.

Pat Gillie is a retired educator who was employed for 33 years by the Board of Education for the City of Hamilton and the amalgamated Hamilton-Wentworth District School Board. She served as an elementary teacher, Principal, Consultant, and School Superintendent. As a retired principal, her skill at educating is obvious in the reports and information she writes which summarize the activities of the program. For members unable to attend meetings, these articles are truly an excellent substitution.

Pat has consistently been someone special for the entire time she has been involved with Crime Stoppers and that, indeed, makes her an Outstanding Civilian Volunteer of the Year.

Major Carrie Riddell - Coralie Wagner Memorial Service Award

Major Carrie Riddell participated in the War in Afghanistan. During this time he was the commander of CIMIC in Kandahar Province.

He commanded 45 troops broken down into teams. Each team was assigned community projects in their territories. These were all “over the wire” jobs. Part of Major Riddell’s job was to ensure that his men were safe when they were working in the communities.

The PRT consists of a civilian, military and police component. Major Riddell met a member of the RCMP, Sgt Short, working in the police component who was trying to find a way that the local people could help report on the Taliban and IED’s. Improvised Explosive Devices are the major concern, but there are others.

As a member of a Crime Stoppers board in Canada Major Riddell started thinking of ways to implement this concept in Kandahar. Sgt Short had been unsuccessful in setting up a Crime Stoppers program, so Major Riddell sent some information home to his wife.

Scott Mills - Presidential Award

Each year, at the Gala dinner, hosted by the incumbent CSI President, at the end of the annual CSI conference, there is a President's award' presentation. This award is at the behest of the President alone and is his or her personal choice. Historically, it is usually presented to an individual who, over the preceding 12 months, has truly made a difference to CSI.

Scott Mills' almost fanatically impassioned, bordering on the obsessed, approach to using the perceived dark art of social media within law enforcement has led to a dawn of enlightenment within CSI and by contagion, to our wider partners both LE and public, that has allowed the popular social media platforms to become part of our daily lives and thus, in turn, allowing Crime Stoppers to engage with citizens using another dimension to allow them to report wrongdoing as well as ensuring that they are aware of what is going on around them.

Scott, an officer with the Toronto Police Service, truly deserves the CSI 2012 President's award for “outstanding personal commitment to Crime Stoppers.” He is a total star!

Major Riddell set up and implemented a modified program in Kandahar Province. Cellular phones are the best way of communication in that area. A series of cell phone number were setup with police coordinators taking tips. The “Tips Line” was distributed to the communities where the Canadian troops were working. Although there were few cash tip payout’s, Tips were solicited by handing out phone cards. This program as it existed assisted the CIMIC teams in accomplishing more than any other team had previously accomplished in the previous 10 years. These teams completed over 500 projects at a value of over $4,000,000 in a period of eight months. Almost double the next closest CIMIC unit. But, more to the point there were no serious casualties.
